

STREET RAILWAY
SHERIFF'S SALETRACTION SYSTEM BOUGHT BY THE BONDHOLDERS.

AUCTION PRICE $125,000

New Owners Will Pay Receivers'
Certificates Amounting to $10,000

By virtue of a judgment of foreclosure and sale made and entered by the circuit court on April 5, 1910, in the action of the Finance Co. of Pennsylvania vs. the Janesville Street Railway Co., all the property of the local corporation which was in existence at the time of the execution of the trust deed and mortgage, was sold at auction by the sheriff at the basement entrance to the court house at two o'clock this afternoon. The outstanding obligations totaled $175,000 and the bondholders, through Attorney T. S. Nolan, bid in the property for $125,000, subject to receivers' certificates amounting to $10,000, the issue of which was authorized by the court some months ago in order to enable the receivers to improve the line with new wiring, poles, and rails. Hodeluph, Walbridge & Co., of New York, are the principal bondholders, and W. H. Lemons of Rockford and Capt. William Murphy are the receivers. The sale will probably be confirmed by the court next week and steps taken meantime to re-organize the company. Three of the new cars from Rockford are expected here most any day and it is expected that the traction system will soon be in shape to render first class service. Mr. Nolan had no serious competition in the bidding. A few facetious bidders offered various sums, all under a dollar, for the property.

BELVA LOCKWOOD IS
IN EIGHTIETH YEARWas First Woman to Practice Law in United States Courts and Twice Run for President.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Washington, D. C., Oct. 24.—Receiving congratulations from distinguished friends in many parts of this country, and also from abroad, Mrs. Belva Lockwood, the only woman ever a genuine candidate for the high office of President of the United States, and the first woman admitted to the practice of law in the United States courts, quietly celebrated her eightieth birthday anniversary today.

Mrs. Lockwood was a farmer's daughter, born Bennett and named Mary Ann, at Royalton, near Buffalo, Oct. 24, 1830. Her first husband, Uriah A. McNall, was a farmer. After his death she went to Geneva college and got a diploma. For a time she taught school in Lockport, then studied law at the National University Law School, having first been refused admission to the Columbia Law School. Then she had to fight to be allowed to practice.

Her first victory was won by the passing of a bill, framed by herself, through congress admitting her to the court of claims. Then she boarded the United States supreme court and won, and later forced her way into the Virginia courts, to the dismay of most of the Virginia lawyers and some of the Virginia judges.

In 1884, to the distress of Mrs. Elizabeth Cady Stanton and others of "suffrage" renown, Mrs. Lockwood was nominated by the Equal Rights party of the United States. She accepted, and made a most creditable and astonishingly strong fight. She was also a candidate at the next national election.

Of late years Mrs. Lockwood has not taken a very active interest in the woman's suffrage movement. She has lived quietly in this city, devoting her time to writing and to her legal practice. The latter has been quite extensive and very profitable. In recent years she has had not a few big cases, notably on behalf of the Indians, and has defended several murderers.

At eighty years of age who looks more like the motherly wife of a well-to-do farmer who has retired "to the village" for the remainder of her life than an advanced New England woman—and the only one who ever ran for President.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Athens, Ga., Oct. 24.—The parole board of the federal penitentiary here, which was created by a recent act of congress, began its first meeting today for the consideration of applications for paroles and pardons. Among the 200 applicants for pardons the most notable perhaps are Greene and Gaynor, the former millionaire contractors of New York city, who were convicted of implication in the great Savannah harbor improvement fraud, for which former Captain Oberlin Carter of the United States army served a prison sentence. The sentences of Greene and Gaynor, who were convicted only after their cases had been carried to the Privy Council in England and the supreme court of the United States, will expire within the coming year.

Charles W. Morse, the former king and bank owner, who is serving a life-term sentence for wrecking the Bank of North America, is not entitled to make application to the parole board at the present time owing to the fact that he has not yet served one year of his term.

1,528 COUNTS IN
THE INDICTMENTAgainst Standard Oil Co. Which is to be Heard in Federal Court at Jackson, Tenn.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Jackson, Tenn., Oct. 24.—The term of the Federal court which began here today promises to be made notable by the trial of the Standard Oil Company of Indiana on charges of accepting concessions amounting to rebates, which, if proven, would involve a maximum fine of $30,000,000, exceeding by nearly $1,500,000 the fine imposed upon the company two years ago by Judge Kenesaw M. Landis of Chicago. The indictment upon which the Standard Oil Company is now to be tried was returned by the Federal grand jury here four years ago, since which time the trial has been repeatedly postponed. The indictment contains 1,528 counts. If the maximum fine of $30,000,000 should not be imposed the minimum fine upon the 1,528 counts, if sustained, would be more than $1,500,000.

The Standard Oil Company is preparing a defense. It is understood, similar to that which caused the setting aside of the $25,000,000 fine imposed by Judge Landis. Among the counsel which will represent the defense will be J. S. Miller, Chicago, Ill., W. Stewart and Alfred D. Eddy, also of Chicago, and A. C. G. Bond of this city.

Uncle Walt

THE POET PHILOSOPHER

By WALT MASON.

(Copyright, 1909, by George M. Adams.)

The yellow peril came and went, and didn't scare me worth a cent. A peril, then, of darker hue, was held up as a bugaboo. PERILS When Johnson sent the white man's hope careening up against the rope, alarmists said: "The end has come! Now watch the obon peril him!" And still I went my joyous way, and howled a cheery roundelay, and wore my putney dapper grin, until the copper run me in. Oh, peril's plink and perle green are dashed up by each magazine, and yellow journals paint and pour about the perils at our door; unwhisking gentlemen produce fresh perils, residing in their jules; no man in all this blooming land can be so poor he can't command, or be so tight he can't afford a peril for his humble board. With perils here and perils there, and perils raging everywhere, one's bosom should be twin fountains of tears, one's hair should always stand on end, and yet I must confess, my friend, that all the world looks good to me; I'm mashed on everything I see, I whoop and sing my song of cheer until the peeters interfere.

CONSPIRACY TO MAKE BAD MONEY IS NIPPED

Secret Service Agents Got Three Men Charged with Making Counterfeit Nicaraguan Notes.

Chicago, Oct. 24.—Federal secret service detectives swooped down upon a conference of alleged counterfeiters after their motor car had been stopped by the police three times for fast running.

The three arrests that followed punctured a scheme of which the Nicaraguan government was the intended victim. It is said, to the extent of $200,000. The men under arrest are H. N. Secrest, who had claimed to be a representative of the Nicaraguan government and gave his address as Tampico, Mexico; George J. Williams, president of the George J. Williams Printing company, and Richard J. Trumbull, secretary of the Western Engraving and Colorotype company, and manager of the Guarantee Engraving company.

The men were arrested for counterfeiting 150,000 notes of the 1910 5 pesos variety issued by the Nicaraguan government. The raid of the Williams printing plant was the result of a careful surveillance of Secrest by secret service agents for several months. Secrest, who has lived in Panama and Nicaragua for the last ten years, is said to have arrived in Chicago about three weeks ago and to have opened up negotiations with Williams for the printing of the counterfeit notes.

His visit to Chicago was said to have been made after he had tried without success to get the big issues of counterfeit notes printed in Los Angeles, Denver and Cleveland. It was his operations in Cleveland that gave the government agents the first definite clues of his intended operations.

DOLAN, MINE LEADER, KILLED.

Former Union Official Crushed Under Train at Pittsburgh.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Oct. 24.—Patrick Dolan, former president of district 5, United Mine Workers of America, was instantly killed while trying to board a moving train at the Fourth avenue station of the Pittsburgh, Cincinnati, Chicago & St. Louis railroad. Dolan had fallen asleep waiting for the train and was awakened as it was leaving the station. He leaped for one of the coaches, despite warnings, and was thrown under the wheels.

Dolan was defeated four years ago for the district presidency because of a factional fight. He was the first official to call out his men in the big strike of 1897 and was the first to introduce the eight-hour day.

FIND ELECTRIC TRUST. PLAN FOR PROSECUTION

Government Experts Get Evidence for Suit Against the General Company—Patent Office Involved.

Washington, Oct. 24.—It is said that the prosecution of the General Electric company by the department of justice for the alleged violation of the Sherman anti-trust law will be announced shortly.

For more than a year the best experts the government could find have been at work on the case, and according to the information they are reported to have collected evidence of a gigantic trust, controlling all the electric concerns of the country of any size or importance. It is also found there has been a considerable start toward a water power trust.

A general investigation and reorganization of the United States patent office may also grow out of the inquiry on the alleged ground that the electric trust has laid its hands upon the supposedly unimpeachable protector of the inventive genius of the American people.

An Announcement for Smokers

Being Why You Should Buy Cigars Made in Janesville and How You'll Profit By It.

Janesville has six live, growing cigar factories. Yearly the payroll and output of these factories increases, but proportionately they do not increase fast enough. They should be doing right now three times as much business as they are, because they are not in the hands of the smokers in Janesville. There are a great many men in this city who instead of buying locally made cigars, buy "trust made" cigars and at the same time help hold down instead of boosting one of Janesville's best industries. Every time you buy a "trust made" cigar you are not boosting but hurting this city and your own business to a very large extent.

In the six cigar factories, in this city, there are employed some thirty cigar makers. These men are paid an average wage of $18.00 per week, the year around. This money is kept in circulation right here in the form of taxes, merchandise and foodstuffs. Instead of there being only thirty cigar makers employed here, there should be a hundred. Other cities of the same population as Janesville, in different parts of the country, employ three times as many cigar makers as does Janesville. Why can't Janesville do it? If there were a hundred cigar makers employed here, wouldn't it be a big step in the march for a bigger, better Janesville?

FEDERAL MEN GIVEN WARNING.

Civil Service Commission Restrains Activity of Political Workers.

Washington, Oct. 24.—Working politicians are greatly excited over a "warning against activity in politics by federal officers and employees" issued by the civil service commission for the information and guidance of government employees in the classified service.

The order, probably the most drastic that has been issued, will frighten voters and keep them in Washington, when their presence is desired at the polls.

The order has caused representatives of the National League of Republican clubs to go to President Taft for his interpretation of the "limits that are to be placed upon the political activity of government employees."

Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul. ENGINE TENDER WENT OFF INTO TURN TABLE PIT AT ROUNHOUSE IN THE FOG

Slight Damage Done to Tender of Engine 577 in Accident at Half Past Four This Morning.

The fore truck of the tender of engine 577 were broken off and the turn table at the St. Paul roundhouse slightly damaged this morning when about half past four o'clock the tender plunged into the pit.

The engine was being backed out of the house to be put on the table and at the same time Switch Engine 1048 was backing up to the table. The table was set for the 1048, but the man who was at the throttle of the 577 mistook the signal intended for the 1048 to back up, for a signal for him to run the engine onto the table and the tender struck the edge of the turn table before he was able to realize the mistake.

The confusion of signals was due to a heavy fog which made it impossible to see clearly. The wrecker from the N. W. yards came and with the assistance of George Reed and his crew and the men at the St. Paul roundhouse, the tank was picked out of the pit and placed back on the tracks. The accident caused no delay in getting out trains, as the turn was not put out of commission.

BUSINESS RUSHING ON THE ST. PAUL RAILROAD

Four Switch Engines Kept Busy in Yards and at Sugar Factory and Much Freight Handled.

Business in the freight line on the St. Paul road is rushing. Four switch engines crews, the latest a half and half job, beginning work today, are being used to do the work about the yards, at the sugar factory and about the city and train crews. It is reported, are kept busy moving freight to and from and through Janesville. Two crews on the Macho & Southwestern division, it is said, that went to Davis Junction Saturday night and Sunday morning, have not returned, and it is thought that they have been sent out from there with trains, as it was reported there were six hundred cars in the yards at Davis Junction, ordered for Chicago, which had to be moved immediately.

Engineer A. H. Wright and Fireman Jelliman are working on the half and half switch engine.

Will Reed who has been working at the stone quarry, started switching this morning under Switchman Taylor.

James Mulligan has begun work as switchman on the half and half job.

Engine 179 has been fixed over for switching service.

John Kelleher is helping Joseph Tracey in the house in E. Jelliman's place. Jelliman is from on the half and half switch engine.

Chief Wiper M. F. Hays and Helper

McCooey, who assisted in removing the tank of the 577 from the turn table pit, were put at work making repairs on a dumpy today as a reward for their efficient services.

Noll Cronin is working as brakeman on runs 191 and 192 on the R. & S. W. division.

W. W. Winton, district passenger agent, of Madison, was in the city today.

Chicago & Northwestern. INCREASE OF BUSINESS IS SHOWN ON NORTHWESTERN

Change Made in Time Switch Crew Starts Work and All Men on Extra List Are Kept Busy.

Another change in the time crew that formerly had charge of the half and half switch engine has been made, and their work begins now at seven o'clock instead of at five. The same crew as heretofore, Switchman Bradley, Fireman and Griffin with Engineer Gestland and Fireman Urban in charge. Another sign of the gain in the freight traffic is the fact that crews not on regular runs are kept busy handling extra trains.

FORMER CONDUCTOR WILL RUN HOTEL AT THE YARDS

James Broderick Has Leased New Hotel and Will Assume Management On Nov. 1.

James Broderick, an old-time conductor, who has been running a railroad man's hotel at Clinton, Iowa, has leased the New Hotel at South Janesville, and will assume the management of it on the first of November. New fixtures will be installed in the building.

The instruction car was at the depot track Saturday and Sunday giving instructions on the new book of rules.

Workmen at the roundhouse and yards are wondering what circumstances prompted Jack Leo to such a display of inventive qualities as he gave yesterday. Desiring a mirror he secured a piece of plate glass and attempted to make one by pasting aluminum paper, used for the lettering on engines, on one side of the glass. The attempt, however, was not altogether a success. It is a matter of conjecture as to whether he intended to prepare for a contest of the fair ones or was merely expecting a visit from the president of the road.

Engine 1716, equipped with a device for pushing down the coal in the tender, was in the house yesterday. The engine is about the only one on the road with this fireman's helper, and which was invented by a fireman named Ryan, working on the Galena division, some four or five years ago. It consists of a framework attached to the tank and worked by steam from the engineer's side of the cab, which pushes the coal to within reach of the fireman's shovel. It is called a coal puller.

Three trains of stock passed through here yesterday and two were ordered for today.

Train No. 507 had a carload of Italian laborers this morning bound for Clyman. The car was switched from 507 here and sent from here to Clyman.

Train No. 506 had two sections today, the second section being a fish train. Engineer Yates and Fireman Kolbow took the second section south from here to Chicago. The engine and crew who brought the train here, engine 1377, Conductor Brand and Engineer Jones, doubleheaded 322 to Belvidere.

Engineer Wilke and Fireman Donley took an extra south at 12:30 yesterday afternoon.

Daniel Sullivan has resumed work in the house after a week's layoff.

Another sign of the gain in the freight traffic is the fact that crews not on regular runs are kept busy handling extra trains.

Heart to Heart Talks.

By EDWIN A. NYE.

A BLACKSMITH POLITICIAN.

Should you have occasion to visit the office of the state auditor of Colorado you may meet a heavy set man with honest, Irish eyes whose hearty ways will make you feel at home.

That is "Randy" Keenehan.

And should you be a stranger with a newspaper man's habit of acquaintances concerning affairs he will chat with you for half an hour and not grow impatient.

Ask him about his political career and he will say nothing.

Last year one day Randy Keenehan took off his leather apron, washed his hands in the cooling tub and strode up the hill to the statehouse.

An hour before he took the oath of office as state auditor he had been shoeing horses in John Murphy's shop.

Keenehan is the sort of labor leader who not only leads, but labors—entirely different from the walking delegate whose hands are as soft as a dry goods clerk's.

For thirty years he has hammered an anvil and shod horses, bulles and bronchos for wages. But always he has been a student of affairs.

For twenty years Keenehan has been secretary and treasurer of the International Union of Journeymen Horse-shoers. And during all that time no ill gotten gold has touched his embossed palm.

Honest as the day is long, Keenehan has served in the Denver city council, on the board of supervisors and has been a member of the state central committee of his party.

And he has never quit his forge for a day, save once a year to attend the horse-shoers' convention.

Keenehan claims to be nothing more than a blacksmith and is proud of his business, but woe to the state employee who sends a padded bill into his office for approval!

It is a positive pleasure to meet this fine man, who is practical and straightforward, but who is also an intelligent student of economics, with breadth of vision.

Here is the lesson:

It is your duty to engage in politics, but you should not depend upon that precarious business for a livelihood. Stick to your business, young man.

Be above the temptations of bribery in politics, and when office falls yours it will—you can go back to your forge or farm or office honest and independent to the last.</

THE BOYS' REPUBLIC.

The city of Milwaukee has an organization known as "the boys' republic." Its object is to inculcate patriotism and to cultivate a knowledge of American institutions. The boys hold a banquet the other night and Mayor Sedell was invited to address them, which he did in a way that has subjected him to severe criticism. He told them that they had made a mistake in adopting the constitution of the United States as their constitution, and advised them to revolutionize it by providing the initiative and referendum and a lot of measures equally fanciful. Among the numerous letters of censure sent to the city press is the following from J. A. Watrous, addressed to the Milwaukee Sentinel:

"Mayor Sedell did not give the young citizens of 'The Boys' Republic' a square deal at their banquet Thursday evening. That large audience of happy, hopeful, enthusiastic, ambitious, impressionable youngsters, one of the most delightful and inspiring assemblages of young people I ever looked upon, richly deserved a square deal, the best that any speaker could give it.

"The boys looked for help and encouragement. They showed it in their eagerness to catch every word, but they didn't get other. The mayor began by telling them they had made a great mistake in patterning their republic after the government of their country, the American republic, the United States. Probably there was not a boy present who had not heard, many times, that the government of the United States is the best that was ever devised by men, but here was their mayor telling them it was not; that they could have done better by going to the social democratic party for a pattern.

"A little statesman—he must be a senator or a representative in the congress of the boys' republic—whispered this statesmanlike remark: 'If ours is not a good republic, with a good form of government, why do 1,000,000 people come to us every year from foreign countries?'

"As if his expressed dissatisfaction with the government of the United States was not sufficiently impressive, the mayor suggested a revolution right away.

"The mayor gave the boys some good advice, but what could have been less helpful, less encouraging, less timely, less appropriate, less patriotic and more inexcusable than his talk to these boys against the American republic as a pattern for their republic and in favor of revolution? I can think of nothing.

"If I didn't like the mayor personally and didn't like some of the things his administration is doing, things that every administration the last twenty years ought to have done, it would be easier to unqualifiedly condemn those portions of his speech alluded to.

"There may be an excuse for not praising our form of government on the part of a citizen, though I can think of none, but certainly there can be no excuse for a citizen of this land of freedom and unlimited opportunities to talk of it in a way well calculated to breed treason—revolution.

"My hope is that the young citizens of the boys' republic will forget that part of Mayor Sedell's speech and become such lovers of their country and its government, so patriotic, that they can think of no sacrifice they would not make for it if it ever needs sacrifice on their part."

"This kind of talk to American boys from the mayor of the principle city in the state is an insult to the citizenship of a loyal commonwealth, and an index of what would happen with socialism in the saddle. The Cream City is to be commemorated for its misfortune.

NOT IN SYMPATHY.

Colonel Roosevelt seems to have gained the ill-will of the college fraternity, judging from the recent utterances of two men in authority.

"Professor E. H. Woodruff of Cornell university closed a public discussion of Mr. Roosevelt at Ithaca, N. Y., on Thursday by denouncing the ex-president as 'unmitigated liar'.

While the Rev. Dr. W. Woolsey Stryker, president of Hamilton college, puts it a little more mildly, his statement, which follows, is equally significant.

"I like the clear and frank position of Mr. Dix (anti-Roosevelt candidate for governor), and I shall vote for him, not upon the basis of any comparison between him and the republican candidate, but because I feel strongly that the personality and influence which dominated the recent republican convention endanger every just theory of government and law. I repudiate that influence. I trust that its rash ambition will be rebuked. Greatly admiring President Taft, I also resent the implied slight put upon him by one who in both judgment and record is far his inferior. I mean also to vote for a good share of the rest of the democratic ticket, because not trusting the wisdom of many of those who have listened to bow down and worship a volcano."

The colonel seems to be getting it on all sides, and it is just possible that he has passed the zenith of popularity.

The gate receipts for the five days necessary to decide the baseball championship, was $154,000, and the attendance 125,000. This would indicate that the national game has lost nothing by way of popularity. Western men are disappointed over the result, but the Philadelphia team was the strongest, and it was evident when they came west with two games to their credit that they would be the winners.

The New York Times recently sent a special correspondent to Wisconsin to size up the political situation. He reported that 175,000 republicans stayed at home on primary election day, through lack of interest, inasmuch as the democratic party lost its identity, through pernicious activity, it is safe to assume that the successful candidates, dead or alive, are indebted to democracy. Just how these conditions will affect the November election is a problem yet to be solved.

It was to be expected that ex-Senator Parker of Ohio would denounce the former President and his "new nationalism," as the discredited Senator has no time for Mr. Roosevelt, but his tears are groundless. The American people will never consider the doctrine of the "new nationalism" seriously, as they will be slow to invest authority advocated in any one man, however popular he may be. The people will continue to rule so long as the republic endures.

With an appropriation of only $100,000 to inaugurate the new postal savings bank system, the government is so badly handicapped that but little progress is being made. The money will be spent to establish one bank in each state, and Milwaukee is the city selected in Wisconsin, to test the experiment. The people want these banks and congress should provide forthwith without delay.

English justice, as noted out to Dr. Crippen, the American criminal, was swift and unrelenting, as the doctor discovered to his sorrow. There was no insanity plea, or other devices so often resorted to in American courts. This is the kind of justice which has a tendency to prevent crime. It commands a wholesome respect for law and safeguards society.

The balloon "America II," which passed over Janesville at 8 o'clock in the morning, one day last week, is one of the two that is still missing. After a flight of more than 1,200 miles the supposition is that the navigators landed in the Canadian forests, where they are liable to be lost for several days.

HOLDING INQUEST AS TO THE DEATH OF AGED RESIDENT

District Attorney Fisher Orders Examination into Death of Isaac Isaacson.

District Attorney John L. Fisher, and a coroner's jury are this afternoon making a close examination into the death of Isaac Isaacson, who lived on the State Line road between Beloit and Clinton and whose death on Friday last has created considerable question as to whether he did not die of poison.

Mr. Isaacson was sixty-eight years of age and it is alleged that he and his wife had been out for some time past. Neighbors who requested the inquest, state that he has repeatedly told them that he feared death by poison and that his last illness, while not severe, showed signs of some foreign matter in his system.

On Monday, a week ago, Dr. Brown of Beloit was called to the Isaacson home and found him suffering with trouble with his stomach. He prescribed for the sick man and said he would return Wednesday. This, it is said, his wife objected to, but Dr. Brown was there Wednesday and was to have returned Friday for a third visit when he was called to the home by the wife and he never came.

As far as can be learned the sick man was not better and on Friday his wife was absent from home from eleven until three, when she returned to find him lying dead on a couch. The investigation has been brought about by neighbors and friends of the deceased who are certain all is not right and the stomach is to be taken out and examined by Prof. E. G. Smith of Beloit college for traces of poison.

Isaacson was very wealthy, has a fine farm and was well thought of by his friends and neighbors. Two sons, however, have become insane within the past few years, one being at the county farm and the other at a private sanitarium in Beloit.

The jury consisting of Floyd Carter, Albert Tarnon, Alfred Bohlenhimer, Chas. Oliver, D. H. Foster and Chas. Kuhn, District Attorney Fisher, Justice Emerson Post of Beloit, Doctors Holm and Brown of Beloit, Prof. E. G. Smith of Beloit college and a representative of the Beloit Gazette, left Beloit at once and went to the Isaacson farm in four automobiles. Mrs. Isaacson presented the appearance of the party but told them to bring all the doctors they wanted as they would find nothing. She told District Attorney Fisher that her husband had worked too hard and had died from natural causes.

However, the two physicians with the party performed an autopsy and took the heart and stomach out and turned them over to Prof. Smith for analysis. The complaint was made by three half-brothers of the deceased, Mrs. Minnie Munson, Mrs. Carrie Therkelsen and Mrs. Hattie Larson.

The two sons that are insane are named Edward and August and have been suffering for some time. The appearance of the body is said to have been normal, showing no visible signs of death by poison and the jury returned to Beloit and adjourned until Prof. Smith makes his report.

Mr. Isaacson owned some 380 acres of land and lived on one portion of it in a little frame house, unpainted, and everything about the place showed signs of dilapidation. The funeral will be held as originally planned.

WORLD SERIES END

PHILADELPHIA "ATHLETICS" WIN BASEBALL PENNANT FOR 1910.

LOSE ONE GAME OUT OF FIVE

Deciding Contest Is Played at Chicago Before Record Crowd—Great Pitching Battle for Seven Innings—Colins Plays Brilliantly.

STANDING OF WORLD'S SERIES.

Clubs.	Won.	Lost.	Per cent.
Philadelphia	4	1	.800
Chicago	1	4	.200

Statistics of the Five Games.

Chicago, Oct. 24.—Johnny Kling batted the ball swiftly across the diamond. Barry, the Athletics' shortstop, scooped it up, ran to second base and touched the bag with his foot. Then, holding the ball in his hand, he leaped wildly across the field, shouting joyously.

Second Baseman Collins.

the world's baseball championship for the season of 1910. For Barry had earned the last out of the fourth game of the world championship series by a score of 7 to 2.

At the deciding contest one of the largest crowds that ever attended a ball game in Chicago—27,374—was present, and up to the eighth gave one of the rarest exhibitions of "rooting" ever witnessed in this city. When Chicago scored in the second inning the "fans" went wild and when the Quaker City men took the lead in the fifth the crowd begged and pleaded with their favorites to "come back" and win out. But, after the faint eighth, when Philadelphia scored five runs, they sat back in their seats and watched, silently, the work of the youthful machine triumph over the veterans whom they had regarded as unbeatable.

Brown and Coombs, the latter the iron man of the series, fought a great pitchers' battle for seven innings and Brown then blew. In the fearful eighth the entire Athletics team went to bat and hammered Brown hard. Four hits, two of them doubles, a wild throw by Zimmerman and a wild pitch by the three-fingered twirler, sent five Athletics players over the plate and created the hopes of the Cub followers.

Collins Is the Star. Collins, the second baseman of the Philadelphia, was the star of the game. He drove out two doubles and a single, and, when the battle was won, stole third, that he might display his speed. In fact, Collins was a large factor in every contest between the two teams. His hitting, fielding and base running was of the most brilliant character.

Philadelphia made one run in the first inning, when Hartzel singled, stole second and scored on Collins' single. Chicago evened up matters in the second. Chance hit for two bases, he went to third on Zimmerman's sacrifice and crossed the plate on Steinfeldt's single.

The Philadelphia forged ahead in the fifth. On Steinfeldt's error Murphy reached first base, went to second on Barry's perfect sacrifice and registered a run when Lapp drove the ball through center for two bases.

Chicago Loses in Eighth. It was the eighth inning that proved the downfall for Chicago's aspirations for the pennant of 1910. Coombs hit a hot one to Chance, but the latter was unable to field it in time to put the runner out. He was forced at second by Hartzel. The latter stole second. Lord followed with a two-bagger, Hartzel scoring. Collins came right back with a sacrifice fly to Zimmerman, who cut Collins off at the plate.

which World Series pitcher into Zimmerman, who cut Collins off at the plate. Davis walked. Murphy hit a fast one through Zimmerman, Baker scoring and Davis going to third. Zimmerman then threw wild and Lord scored. On a wild pitch Murphy went home with the fifth run.

Chicago registered one in the same inning on Sheppard's two-bagger, Schulte's out and Chance's single. The score:

DRUGS VS. NATURAL CURE.

Drugs sometimes stimulate the vital functions to normal activity, by suggestion, directly, through the conscious mind, as in the case of the bread pill or colored water, and subjectively, by direct stimulation of the cells, in a manner not to be distinguished from the action of food. Alcohol, chloroform and some other drugs may affect the cells as quickly as the oxygen does normally, conveyed by the blood to the remotest part. Anesthetics will be useful even after we learn to control sensation through the spinal cord, or by inducing the cataleptic sleep, with insensibility to pain, by suggestion or by withdrawal of the blood from the brain by mechanical means, and antiseptics always. But for ordinary ills not requiring mechanical treatment, diet, suggestion, water and other natural means including wisely directed fasting, are the safest as well as the most effective means of cure.

"THE CAUSE OF DYSPEPSIA AND ITS CURE"

Most people imagine that food is digested in the stomach. This is only partly true or rather mostly not true. The stomach secretes pepsin and the necessary acids to digest meat, eggs, etc., that is albumins, as most of our food consists of fat and starch. The work of most cases of dyspepsia is not in the stomach but in the pancreas and small intestines. The pancreatic gland secretes pancreatic juice which assimilates and digests fat while distaloid is the main digestant, digesting all starchy foods, bread, potatoes, peas, etc. These are all digested in the small intestines. Improper eating or overeating of certain substances or insufficient secretion, necessarily calls for more pancreatic and distaloid than nature ordinarily supplies. Now, what's the remedy? If pepsin and acids don't agree with you or your stomach is weak, why take pancreatic and distaloid to temporarily assist nature, add to these good stomach tonics like Compound Lactacid, Cascarin and aromatic, and you have a scientific and efficient stomach remedy. Mr. Pennington, our Graduate Pharmacist, has compounded this prescription so many times that we now call it Digestive Remedy No. 29263. We advise you to preserve this number and at once get a bottle for any case of indigestion or stomach trouble. The price is 50c. This remedy is not a patent medicine, but a perfectly harmless prescription compounded for you fresh in liquid form, the only proper way of taking stomach remedies—no tablets do not thoroughly mix with the food to your best results. Remember the name, Digestive Remedy No. 29263. Badger Drug Co., Milwaukee and River St., the drug store that makes a specialty of drugs.

WOMAN'S PAGE

The Evening Chit-Chat

By RUTH CAMERON.

TODAY'S letter is especially addressed to "shy people." Yesterday I gave some of the wise and helpful suggestions for overcoming shyness, which my readers sent me in response to a letter, which I had published, from a shy girl who wanted to be told how to overcome her weakness.

Their wisdom and helpfulness overflowed a single day's space, so I quote some more today.

"I read your article in the paper, last evening, relative to a letter a poor shy girl had written you," writes one of my correspondents, "and could not help thinking how well it suited my own case several years ago. I used to envy the girls who chatted away so freely and unhesitatingly in company, while I hardly dared to open my mouth. I remembered like this until one day I came across an article which I thought surely had been written for me. It simply said that if a girl could not help herself shy and backward in company, the way to overcome it was to go right ahead and speak out, force herself, at any cost, to say something and try to be sociable. I thought I would try just for an experiment and found it very hard at first. It seemed as though another person, not myself, were speaking. I kept up the battle quite bravely though until, to my surprise, I found it became quite the natural thing, and words and jokes came with-out effort."

"A few years ago I was distressingly shy and self-conscious," writes another correspondent. "After considerable thought about the matter I concluded that everyone I met was long-sighted and needed entertaining, and I solved the problem. I attended the theatre and lectures as often as possible, and also read and digested the news of the daily papers—I mean things worth knowing and talking about—and in this way I had a number of subjects at my command which I could intelligently talk about."

Here is a letter that has so very much good sense that I must quote it bodily:

"Dear Shy Girl:—
"I was—and I am not. I love you already and I'd dearly like to help you, so I'm going to tell you just what made the difference in me."
"In the first place get away from home—not to stay, you know—just for a visit. The sense of what people expect you to be literally paralyzes our efforts to appear anything else. So get away where nobody has any preconceived opinions about you."

"Then do as Miss Cameron says, put on your prettiest dress, spend an hour over your hair if necessary and start out for conquest—not of other people, but of yourself. Pick out the least formidable person in the room to practice on—a young girl, perhaps shy like yourself, or a middle-aged, lonely old maid. Then talk. Try to interest her. You'll find it amazingly easy since she isn't used to attention. Get her talking if you can. That's a more valuable talent still."

"Don't neglect anybody—the postman who brings your mail, the girl behind the counter, the garrulous old lady on the train—have a word and a smile and a bit of sympathy for them all. And before you know it, by not waiting for the 'worth while people' to begin on, you'll be able to talk, to listen, to get something from, and to give something to, almost everybody. And what will surprise you most—you'll be amazingly popular."

In behalf of my shy girl and all her sisters, thank you, folks. Seems to me she hasn't any excuse for suffering from that trouble any longer.

CONSERVING ENERGIES.

By MARY HUSSELL.
It has found us out—our shyness! We have found out the strenuous life to the skies. We have boasted of our ability to turn our work, our architects and master builders have been called to England to teach the philosophy of moving pictures.

"Get a handle on," we have beaten them all at games and business that requires speed. We have taken yacht prizes and now comes a man—an Englishman—a man who does things, lots of things—to tell us we waste our energies by attempting too much.

The man who has dared to assault our most sacred and highly-prized prerogative is one Joseph Lyon. His name will mean but little to the average American. We are too busy to read the papers tell us he is a "great restaurateur," a painter, a novelist, librettist, dramatist, and, from our point of view, a "handier" built along American lines.

We will resent this meddling with our affairs. We feel perfectly able to manage our own business. But sometimes it is wise to take a view from the other side. There can be no question as to the self-evident fact that we are living too fast. The breakdown which seems to come inevitably to the man of 50 or 60 years, who leads an active life, is one proof of this. The well-filled, red cheeks and cankerous lips are another proof that women suffer from nerve wear which might be avoided.

Mr. Lyon says that the average American puts more mental, physical and nervous energy into his work at all times than it demands. I believe this is true. We rush from one thing to another in a breathless fashion, evidently laboring under the delusion that all the work that can be crowded into the day is the proper measure of our capacity.

We break down too often and have to lay by for repairs. After every such strain on the health we never quite "come back." Like the prize fighter who proved so disappointing, we find we haven't the reserve force to call upon. We use it too lavishly. In health and strength, as in all other forms of living, we are prodigal.

The stock criticism on our rapid eating is inevitable. We acknowledge this and are taking steps to mend our ways. We hope in time to teach moderation to the worthy Britons, who eat slowly and much, and often. We find men who could, once fed at Pletcherism listening with attention to instruction and advice in the matter of food.

"I hold that a man pays more for his success than it is worth when it demands of him the expenditure of all his powers and leaves him no time, inclination or energy for the exercise of his faculties or talents in other directions."

That is worth considering in all its bearings, as is the contrast between the Briton, who keeps but a modest competence and is then satisfied to retire and ride a hobby, Mr. Lyon just says we need to cultivate hobbies. The epidemic and worth of the whole article lies in the advice contained in the description of how he conserves his own energies. He says: "I square my practice with my precepts by organizing myself to run myself to keep cool and do what I have to do without expending more nervous energy on the task than is necessary. In consequence, when I have finished my day's work I feel nearly as fresh as when I started."

This is for women as well as men. The old-time housekeeper used to preach the wisdom of making the head save the heels. Keep cool and be master of yourself. That is the whole truth boiled down!

AN UNUSUAL FROCK.

Very dark blue is exploited more than usual in dressy frocks, and there are a good many exceedingly attractive dark blue crepes among the new imported models. A clever model, without intricate elaboration is made in very dark blue crepe, with a unique but pretty tulle, oddly trimmed at bottom with rich Chinese embroidery. This trimming is also used at waist line, where the bodice creases in surplice fashion. Sleeves are cut in bias with bodice and there is a shield of plain blue silk.

Veal Cheese.

This makes a very tasty meat dish and is a change from the ordinary.

Prepare equal quantities of sliced veal and cold tongue (smoked). Run each kind of meat separately through meat chopper and proceed to pack in a dish or cake pan, mixing in alternate layers, first the smoked tongue and then the veal. Moisten with melted butter. Press down hard. Keep it well covered in a dry place. Slice when cold.

Spinach Salad.

Wash a peck of spinach carefully in boiling water until every particle of sand is removed, boil immediately. When the spinach is done, strain and chop finely and pack into six or more quart glasses. Arrange the same number of slices of cold tongue on a dish with a garnish of lettuce leaves and hard-boiled eggs, and when the spinach is well chilled turn out the contents of each glass upon the meat. Serve with French dressing.

What to Do With Honey.

Honey is such a wholesome, sweet that it may be used freely with the little people. Here is one to delight the palate of a child:

Honey Popcorn Balls.—Heat slowly one cupful of strained honey and boil until it will crack when dropped in water. Pour it at once over a quart of freshly popped corn and shape into balls, greasing the hands a little with butter to prevent sticking.

Honey Nougat.—Put three-quarters of a pound each of granulated sugar and strained honey in a saucepan and boil until a little dropped in cold water becomes brittle. Add the well-beaten whites of two eggs and three-quarters of a pound of blanched almonds cut in strips. Turn into a buttered pan, press down as smooth as possible, cover with a waxed paper and a weight. When cold and firm, cut in squares.

Helpful Hints.

When it is unavoidable (the setting of a dish or sauce pan directly over the fire, grease the dish well on the bottom and any smut that forms can be easily wiped off.

A good silence cloth may be made from a discarded bed spread of the old-fashioned weave.

When washing lace, rinse it in milk, which gives it the creamy tone and softens it at the same time.

An easy way to clean a cereal cooker is to turn it upside down in a dish of boiling water and let it steam until the sticky mass is soft and loosened from the side of the pan.

Clean white paint with a dish of hot water, a cloth and a dish of bran, the bran removes dirt.

Fresh fish may be kept for several days by covering with salt and putting in a cold place.

A few grains of rice put into the salt shaker will keep the salt from hardening.

Closely woven goods require less starch to stiffen.

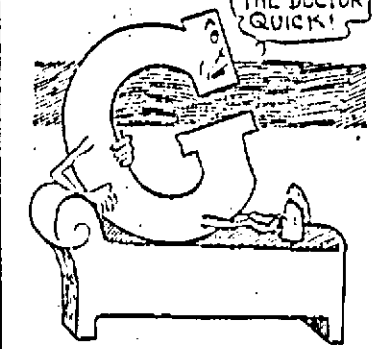

Before making over a garment, wash in soap and a little ammonia water and press well on the wrong side, then make up and it will often be hard to tell from new goods.

Some Lovers of Fat Men.

They say that nobody loves a fat man. Well, I am not so sure about it. I once knew a very fat old gentleman who, became a missionary and went to Africa to convert the heathen. He never came back. I dare say the cannibals love the fat ones best.—Exchange.

The Census.

The census originated in Rome, but it was mainly directed to fiscal objects, the numbering of the population being a matter of secondary consideration. The census, in the real modern sense of the word, is the creation of the United States and England. Our first census was taken in 1790, and England's in 1801.

TRAINING COUNTS FOR MUCH

Railroads Just Now Paying Much Attention to Encouraging Politeness Toward Its Patrons.The Railway Age Gazette is conducting a "symposium" in its correspondence columns on the question,
"Can Politeness Be Taught?" referring, of course, to politeness of railway conductors and other employees.
Mr. William H. Simms of the Philadelphia and Western railway makes this contributory suggestion:"Instead of the professor of deportment, it seems that on the large systems we shall some day have the social engineer, qualified to look beneath the pretensions of men and discern the real qualities that animate the individual."That is, it is more a matter of selecting men possessed of the spirit of real courtesy, which, as Mr. Simms rightly says, is based on sympathy and sincerity, than by instruction to produce the mere forms of kindness, justice, and considerate attention to the patrons in the employes of a railway. But this spirit also responds to training."After securing the proper men they must be taught and trained. Some men resent discipline, but it is only the trained horse that wins the race.
A capable, courteous conductor, if given the right men, will train up men exemplifying the good qualities that he himself possesses."It is a matter for congratulation

OF CHRISTENDOMREV. BEATON SPOKE ON CONGRE-GATIONALISM, ITS GENIUS AND ACHIEVEMENT.

FOSTERED SPIRIT OF LIBERTY

Told of Great Movements and Principles Which Have Been Engendered by Congregationalism.Congregationalism, its genius and achievement, was the subject of Rev.
David Beaton's sermon at the First Congregational church yesterday morning. The text was found in the fifth chapter of the Epistle to the Galatians, the first verses. "Stand fast in the liberty wherewith Christ hath made us free, and be not entangled again with the yoke of bondage." Dr. Beaton spoke as follows:I speak today not in the interest of a denomination to boast of its free spirit, and exalt its achievements, but to set forth the nature of our church life, and relate its work to the universal interests of the kingdom of God. The occasion for this is happy.
For there has just been held in Boston a series of meetings of the American Board celebrating the centennial of its work; and the Triennial council of our churches which has taken some progressive action towards a closer federation of all our denominational societies. These two events, important enough to attract international attention, give us occasion to speak of the genius of our church polity and the achievements of our methods in practical work.The superficial observer of social and religious life in the present day is inclined to disregard the polity of a church and lay undue stress upon its charities and sensational features.
This is singular enough in an American, for politically and socially we boast of the freedom of our institutions. Now, in this respect, Congre-gationalism is the spirit of democracy in religious government. Its motto is,
"Stand fast in the liberty wherewith Christ hath made us free." It centers that freedom in the congregation of believing people, not in a priest or bishop, which is Episcopacy; not in a presbyter or synod which is Presbyterianism, but in the people, making no sacramental distinction between laymen and ministers of the gospel. It will be of great interest to all unprejudiced observers of modern life to know that Christians of this way of thinking are the most numerous among the Protestants of America. There are really but three different forms of church government.
All the churches can be logically classified under the heads of Episcopacy, Presbyterianism, and Congregationalism.
The great bodies of Lutherans and Methodists are sometimes Episcopalian, as the M. E. church in America, and sometimes synodical.
Now it may surprise some to learn that of the seventeen million Protestant Christians in America—Episcopalian, Presbyterian, Methodist, 1,000,000;
Lutheran, 1,000,000; Congregationalist, 800,000; and others, 8,000,000.
Congregationalism, so-called, 7,200,000;
there are all the disciples of Christ, the Universalists, the Unitarians and the Baptists (white and black) to the total of 5,750,000. Now these figures are significant of the fact that the great mass of American Protestant Christians are of the democratic form of church government, and center authority for faith and practice in the people. And in this fact perhaps is the greatest glory of the Congregational way; for though the original body did not grow so vast as some of the others who came to America later, it was because we inducted them and they became in practice Congregational, and also because our idealistic conception for human liberty, made it impossible for us to found churches in the slave holding states of the South. Ours was the honor of John the Baptist. We were willing to decrease, denominationally, for the larger interests of the kingdom.Now this characteristic of our polity is vital; it is not a form, or a mere sentiment, it runs through the whole history of Congregationalism in Europe and America. It is not an insurgent spirit, for it has played the most constructive part in modern politics, and religion since the age of the Reformation. It practically created the American states in their local delegated democracy of the townships, which were in effect our church polity applied to politics, and all America's great charters from the compact in the cabin of the Mayflower to the Declaration of Independence are the direct fruits of this spiritual democracy.
Nor can there be any more deadly defection from the spirit of Christ, nor any more degenerate signs in the university of Christians than for any body of American churches to submit their intellects, their reason and intelligence, to the control or domination of Pontifex, of the Lords, of the Covenanters, Puritans, and Methodists all at once that would not be the mark of a slavery of the spirit, and the sure sign of intellectual imbecility and moral degeneracy.What, then, it may be asked, have we done with this large liberty of the spirit, this enlightened liberty of religious action? First, we have been teachers, preachers, and leaders among the nations of modern Europe;
in the separation of church and state.
Nor is this merely a political benefit.
It goes deep down into the secret forces of a true democracy. What Cromwell did in England, what the makers of the American constitution did,what France and Portugal have done as the necessary accompaniment of freedom was first taught and done by Congregationalists. And it is, the fruit of that principle which trusts the people, which relies on their living interest for the support of the church, and as it asks their support, gives them also the privileges of self-government. It is the autonomy of the individual church reduced to its moral and spiritual expression in the free will offering of a free self-governed people. Second: We have emphasized and insisted upon the fundamental Christian conception of the brotherhood of man. This has arisen from our utter and ultimate rejection of the doctrine of a separate caste, called the priesthood in the Christian economy. All are kings and priests to God in Christ. The Sacramental doctrine of a clergy—not apart from the church—is utterly and fundamentally repugnant to us. Nor is this a mere theological argument. Our people, and the nations influenced by them, the civilizations we create, are always founded on national systems of education. Not education for a caste, or aristocracy but popular, national, unsectarian for every child, for man and woman. Perhaps the most remarkable heritage we have bequeathed to America is this passion for popular education. The little red school house, the teacher for every few children, crowned by the state university, in the control of the people, and not the priesthood of any religious body, is the glory of our American life, and it is the fruit of this doctrine of equality in Christian faith and privilege. Harvard, Yale, Dartmouth, Smith, Wesleyan, Oberlin, Beloit and a hundred more are the evidences of our progressive ideas of education and our success in carrying on such work. Some may fear that this passion for liberty and its political and educational expression may have dulled our evangelized zeal.
What are the facts? What is the third great source we have rendered?Third: The greatest and most characteristic revivals of religion, reforms, and social betterments, have been born in the Congregational churches. To those who know the history of religious and social reforms in our country what do I need more than to name: Edwards, Finney, Lyman Beecher, Bushnell, Moody, H. W.
Beecher, Bacon, Garrison, Armstrong,
Gladstone and Father Clarke of the Y.
P. S. C. E. And if we add to that the names of pure thinking, in both philosophy, poetry and civic idealism again comes Edwards, Hooker, Chamberlain, Emerson and Hall. Look over those names again, identify them with the great movements of moral reform, of the destruction of human slavery,
of the spread of temperance and purity, and the broad tolerance of varied beliefs in it all and you will see that Congregationalism is the spirit of the noblest expressions of human grace and benevolence.Fourth: On this occasion of the centennial of our Foreign Missionary Society it is but just that we should place our leaders and pioneers in this splendid Christian service should be mentioned. The A. B. C. F. M. was the earliest, as it has been one of the most remarkable of all American Missionary enterprises. Its leading names today in India, Turkey, Japan and other lands attest its work and power. And in no other form of Christian service could I find a more perfect and conclusive proof of the spiritual, and financial, and social value of our democratic principles than in Foreign Missions. For today the watchword of all the native Christians is a claim to participate in the autonomy, freedom and responsibility of the Congregational way. The future is ours in the church at home and abroad. The freedom of the soul is the watchword of the future.DELAVAN DEFEATED JANESVILLE TEAM
Local High School Squad Met Defeat
by the Score of 11 to 5 at Delavan Saturday.In an exciting and well played gridiron contest, the local high school team met defeat at the hands of their rivals of the Delavan team and Delavan triumphed last Saturday afternoon by the score of 11 to 5. The Janesville boys have the satisfaction of knowing that they were not outclassed at any point of the game as far as football tactics and general knowledge of the sport is concerned. Their defeat may be attributed to the fact that they were outwitted by the Delavan aggregation to the amount of 27 pounds per man which is a decided handicap. The average weight of the local team is 128 pounds while Del-avan's figure is 165 pounds.Delavan intercepted a forward pass on the Janesville boy's eight yard line and scored the touchdown that won the game. They succeeded in kicking goal which made them a margin of six points which Janesville was unable to overcome.This is the second defeat which has been suffered at the hands of the Delavan boys and the latter deserve much credit for their work as all their signals have to be given by means of signs. They are exceedingly active fellows and turn out a very good football team every year.The lineup for Janesville was as follows: Kelly, right end; Fisher, right tackle; Pugh, right guard;
Cannon, center; Davidson, left guard;
Mott, left tackle; Connell and Hazen, left end; Hayes, quarterback; Elder, both left back; Ryan, full back; Brown, right half back; Pufahl, substitute.Next Saturday the Waukesha high school team will play here.Russia's Prisoners.

Any Possible Interference by the Elements.The exposure of overhead wires to wind, snow and sleet storms causes so much loss in property damage and de-

Transmission Ducts Under Tracks.

In train service, both passenger and freight, that an underground system of railway signaling transmission is being strongly advocated by signal engineers in reconstruction and new work.An underground system that has been suggested and approved by engineers of standing consists of a line of vitrified clay conduits, laid in a trench excavated midway between tracks.
Either single or multiple conduits can be used, depending upon the number of ducts required. By the use of clay conduits, it is said that less concrete for mechanical protection is required, and the use of manholes is also eliminated. It has been demonstrated that it is a simple matter to rod and draw a three conductor cable of moderate size through a clay duct 1200 feet in length, and as the block signals of a railroad are usually about one mile apart, only four splices would be necessary between signals.—Popular Mechanics.

The Right of Way.

Grade crossings of railroads should be abolished wherever it is practicable to do so. That proposition is, we believe, little short of axiomatic.
Where they cannot at present be abolished there should be gates or other devices for the safety of the public, at least in the neighborhood of populous centers. That also is indisputable. And it goes without saying that where there are gates they should be used and the gatekeeper should be vigilant and alert in the performance of his duties. Nevertheless, event what? It is the part of wisdom, it is a precept of discretion, it is an imperative duty to sell, that he who crosses a railroad track should look out for the locomotive.
No man in the possession of normal faculties crosses a railroad track without knowing it. Nor is he ignorant of the fact that the railroad train has the right of way along its tracks and that it is for him who crosses them to look out for his own safety. It is no hardship to do so.
Not one traveler in ten thousand legitimately in too much of a hurry to "obey the familiar addition to "stop, look, listen." And not one accident would occur if that rule were followed.—New York Tribune.

Wireless Along Railroad.

The Union Pacific Railroad company is erecting a number of wireless stations along its line for the purpose of augmenting its regular telegraph service, and in this manner it is hoped to establish a means of communication which will insure a continuity of service which might not be expected from either alone. The stations being erected will cover the states of Kansas, Nebraska and Wyoming.

Engineer Caught Pigeon.

While speeding toward Allentown, Pa., Peter Cassidy, engineer of the Reading system, saw a white pigeon flying in the direction of the locomot-

the cab and be killed, but it swerved, Cassidy put out his hand and caught

FRESH INSPIRATION.

Napoleon and His Attitude Toward the Common Soldier.Napoleon understood human nature.
He recognized the great truth, "As a man thinketh in his heart so is he,"
and knew how to apply it not only to himself and his own ambitious projects, but to other men as well. Moreover, he knew precisely the right moment to apply it to quicken the spark of divine energy which smolders in every man, although the ashes of fatigue and failure may cover its light temporarily.A French soldier carried a dispatch to Napoleon. Just as he delivered it into the hands of the emperor his spent horse dropped dead. Napoleon wrote an answer to the dispatch, then, dismounting from his own horse, he handed the bridle to the soldier."Take this horse and ride back, comrade," he said."Say, sire," stammered the soldier, gazing at the blooded horse and its trappings. "It is too magnificent and grand for me, a common soldier."

"Take it!" commanded Napoleon.

"There is nothing too grand and magnificent for a soldier of France."The soldier mounted and rode away on his perilsous business, ready and willing, and Napoleon's words, repeated through the ranks and columns of his army, gave to his tired troops fresh inspiration and energy. "Noting too grand and magnificent for a soldier of France!" they said, and they thought that they were worthy of the best inspired them to the mighty deeds which followed.

WIFELY ORDERS.

Two Men Obeyed Them, but the Third Man Dalked."Three men sat rather late at the club one night," said the man who is responsible for the story. "As they were separating they discussed a little nervously the reception that awaited them at their wives' hands and agreed that he who didn't do what his wife told him on getting home should have to treat the others to a turkey dinner."The first man after reaching his home stumbled about the dark bedroom till he kicked the cat. The cat squealed, and the man's wife, raising her head from the pillow, moaned, "Well, go on;
kick the poor cat and have done with it." The man, frowning and muttering to himself, "It is a case of kill the cat or pay for the dinner," so he killed the cat.The second man on his arrival could not find any matches. As he looked for some in the drawing room he bumped against the piano, and his wife complained, "Why don't you break the piano, careless? Determined not to lose his bet, the man got a latchet, and the sound of crashing boards soon filled the house."The third man, getting home, stumbled on the way upstairs. His wife screamed angrily, "Go on, fall downstairs and break your neck, do?" "Not me," said the third man after a moment's thought, "I'll pay for the turkey dinner."—Chicago News.Pay your subscription to The Ga-

Pure in
the CanPure in
the Baking

Do you know that Baking Powder undergoes a chemical reaction in the process of baking which entirely changes the nature of the original substance? It's a fact.

One of the greatest authorities on Chemistry in the country found that a loaf of bread made from a quart of flour, leavened with Cream of Tartar Baking Powder, contained 45 grains more Rochelle Salt than is contained in one Sedlitz Powder.

Remember, this drug was not in the can. It was formed by the chemical reaction that took place in baking.

That is why so many baking powders which produce impurities in the baking can be advertised as "absolutely pure." It may be pure in the can, but it is not necessarily pure in the food.

CALUMET is absolutely free from every impurity. Food leavened with it contains no Tartaric Acid, Rochelle Salt, Alum, Lime or Ammonia. It is chemically correct. CALUMET is the only high-grade baking powder sold at a moderate price. Do not confuse it with the cheap and big can kinds, or the high-priced, Trust brands. It stands alone.

"I think perhaps you may have," he conceded. "I have seen you both." The second glass (for he was determined that Angle should not escape) took up all his attention for an instant. "Do you have to go, too?" he inquired out of this deep preoccupation.

"What?"
"I mean do you attend regularly?" he amended hastily.
"Oh, yes, of course," Josie stammered, accepting the glass he offered her. "You make it a rule to go every Sunday, don't you, Mr. Duncann?"
He permitted himself an indiscretion, secure in the belief it would pass unchallenged. "It's one of the rules, but I didn't make it."

"Did you know there was a vacancy in the choir?" Angle asked, taking up her glass.
"Choir?"
"Yes," Josie chimed in. "We were hoping you'd join. I want you to awfully."

"We're both in the choir," Angle explained.
"And all the girls want you to join. Don't they, Angle?"
"Oh, yes, indeed; they're all just dying to meet you."

"I'll have to write and ask," he said abstractedly.
"Why, what do you mean by that?" Josie's question struck him dumb with consternation. He made a dash for it.

"I made them dry for you—thought you'd like 'em that way," he stammered. "Perhaps you'd like 'em better if I put a collar on 'em?"
The chorus negatived this suggestion very promptly.
"Why don't you try a glass, Mr. Duncann?" Angle added with malice, slyly nudging Josie.

"I'm on the wagon—I mean, I don't drink at all," he said wretchedly, and was deeply grateful for the diversion afforded by the entrance of a third customer.

It was Tracey Tanner, as usual swollen with important tidings, as usual propelling himself through the world at a heavy trot. It has always been a source of wonderment to me how Tracey manages to keep so stout with all the violent exercise he takes.

"Say, Angle," he twanged at sight of her. "I've been looking for you every where. Did you hear that?"

He stopped instantaneously with open mouth as he saw Duncann behind the counter, and open mouthed he remained while the young man came round and advanced toward him, with a bland smile, accompanied by a professional bow and rubbing of hands.

"May I have the pleasure of serving you, Mr. Tanner?"
"Fish?" bleated Tracey, dumfounded.

"Is there anything you wish to purchase?"
A violent emotion stirred in Tracey. Sounds began to emanate from his heaving chest. "N-no, no, no!" he breathed explosively.

Duncann bowed, again, his face expressionless. "Then will you be good enough to excuse me?" He turned precisely and made his way back to the counter.

As if released from some spell of strong enchantment by the movement, Tracey swung on his heel and lunged for the door.

"What was it you wanted to ask me, Tracey?" Angle called after him. As the boy disappeared at a hard gallop his response floated back, "I forgot."

"I'm afraid I must have frightened him," Duncann said impudently.
"Oh, no; not at all," Josie reassured him. "He's just gone to tell everybody you're here."

"Come, Josie; we've been here ever so long," Angle moved slowly toward the door, but Josie inclined to linger.
"Don't hurry, I beg of you," Duncann interposed.

"Oh, we haven't hurried," she said, with a dash of gratification that startled the man. "You'll remember what I said about the choir, won't you?"

He braced himself to take advantage of the opening. "I shall never forget it," he said impressively.
She gave him her hand. "Then goodbye."

"Not goodbye, I trust!" He retained the hand, despairing himself inexpressibly.

"Oh, we'll be in again, won't we, Angle?"

"Oh, yes, indeed!"

"My hand, Angle! What do you think? I'd almost forgotten to pay for the soda!"

"Please don't speak of it, Miss Lockwood. The pleasure!"

"But I must, Mr. Duncann. How much is it?"

Josie fingered the contents of her purse expectantly, but Duncann hung in the wind. He had no least notion what might be the price of soda water, "Two for a quarter," he hazarded,

THE WAR—SIEGE OF PARIS.

London, Oct. 21.—The German army now investing Paris have appropriated one day to pay the fund for the relief of the sick and wounded. The amount thus far collected, aggregated about half a million thalers, unsecured vagaries. The French have captured and taken into Port of Dunkirk three German steamers.

It is intimated that Russia, not joining England, Austria and Italy in their effort to bring about peace, has declined independently but energetically in the same direction.

Messrs. Guernsey and Brownell will furnish.

ship, during the present week, three carloads of eggs for the east. These eggs, numbering twenty thousand dozen, are packed in barrels and have been purchased by this enterprising firm during the past spring and summer.

About fifty destitute children from the western cities, changed care at Clinton Junction last Saturday. They are under charge of the agent of some benevolent association and are westward bound.

Today is remarkably bright and pleasant. Boreas is rather rude, but his boisterous sports are tempered by an agreeable warmth of the atmosphere which makes us the more willing to forgive his ungovernably.

NO BACKACHE OR KIDNEY MISERY AFTER TAKING JUST A FEW DOSES

The Kidneys surely get fine and bladder trouble vanishes after taking Pappe's Diuretic.

The time to cure kidney trouble is while it is only trouble—before it settles into Dropsy, Diabetes, Gravel or Bright's Disease.

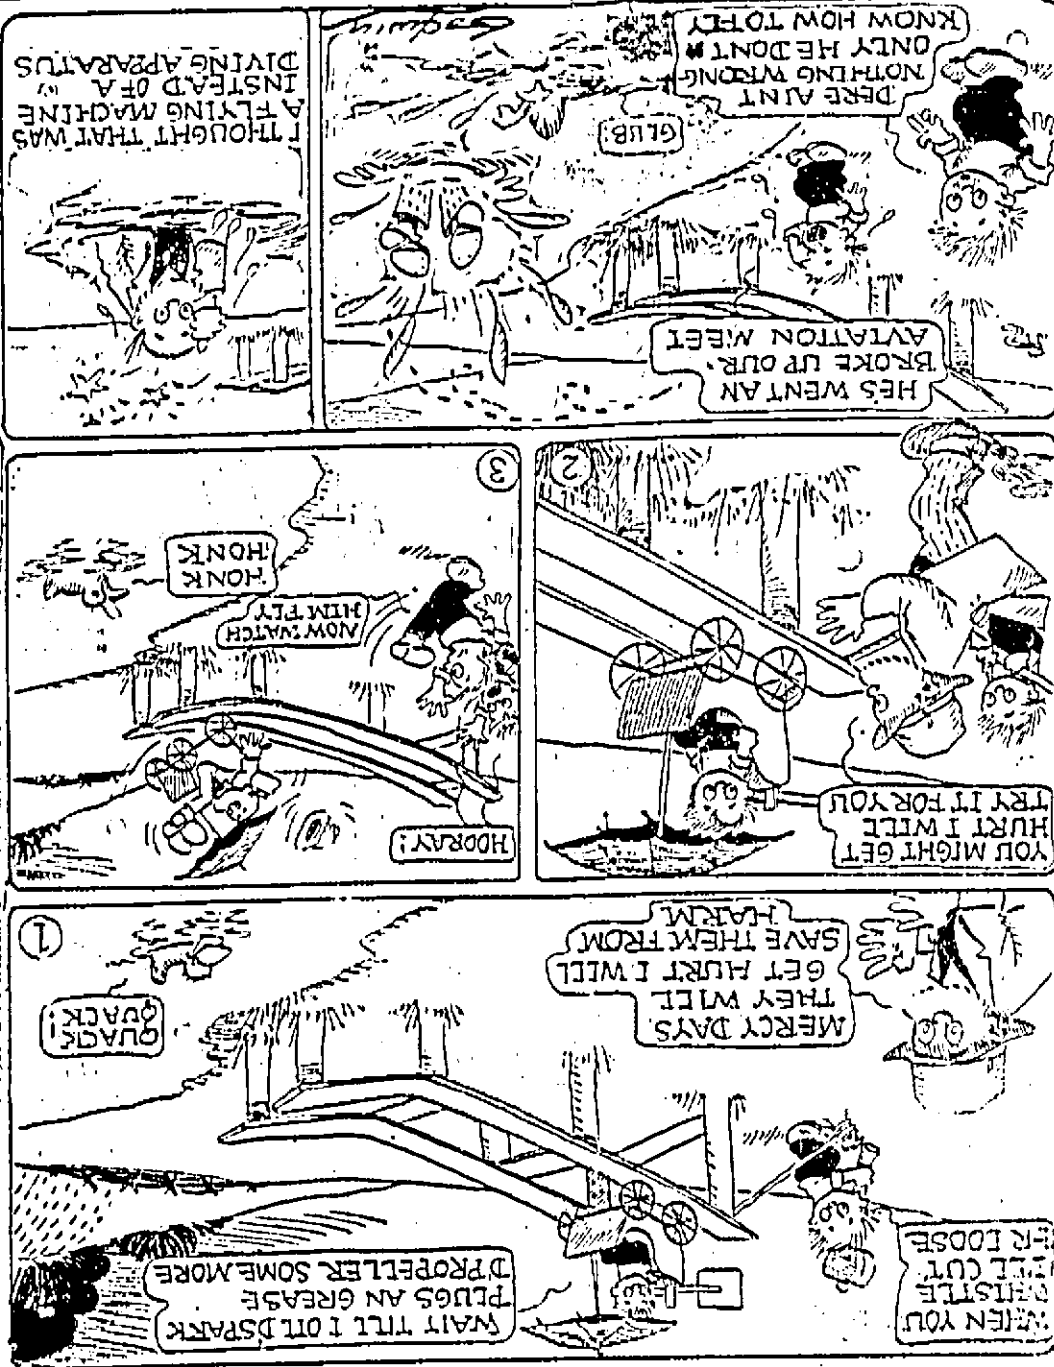

The moment you suspect any kidney, bladder or urinary disorder, or feel a constant or dull aching in the back, sides or loins or the urine is thick, cloudy, offensive or full of sediment, irregular of passage or attended by a sensation of scalding you should begin taking Pappe's Diuretic as directed, with the knowledge that there is no other medicine, at any price, made anywhere in the world, which will effect so thorough and prompt a cure.

Pappe's Diuretic acts directly upon the kidneys, bladder and urinary system; cleanses, vitalizes and regulates those ducts, organs and glands, ending at once such insupportable symptoms as lumbic back, prostatic trouble, headache, dizziness, weakness, nervousness, rheumatism and darting pains, inflamed or purty eyes, irritability, bilious stomach, worn-out feeling, sleeplessness or uncontrollable urination (especially at night), and other distress.

Don't be miserable another moment with a lame back or clogged, inactive kidneys or bladder misery, for after taking Pappe's Diuretic a few days you will be relieved and know all danger is passed.

Your pharmacist, physician, banker or any mercantile agency will furnish for the responsibility of Pappe, Thompson & Co. of Cincinnati, Ohio, who prepare Pappe's Diuretic—advent treatment—sold by every druggist in the world.
